WESTERN SCREECH OWL

Odin has lived at the Wildlife Center since 2014 after she was hit by a car near Astoria.

Due to her injury, Odin lost the vision in her right eye.

Without her full eyesight, Odin is not able to hunt on her own & so she lives here all the time to teach people about her species.

Color: Brown or gray with a pale face, yellow eyes, and a dark bill.

Food: Eats small mammals, worms, insects, and fish. They hunt at night!

Age: Can live 13 years in the wild, or 19 years under human care.

Range: Western North America, northern Mexico, and coastal regions of the Pacific Northwest.

FUN FACTS ABOUT SCREECH OWLS!

Male screech owls attract mates by bringing the females food, and with gestures like bowing, snapping their bills, and hopping.

Western screech owls like to nest in tree cavities or nest boxes.

When western screech owls sit in their roost openings, they blend perfectly into the bark!

Odin's favorite things are mice, meal-worms, evening baths, and foraging for insects.

Odin's least favorite things are ravens, jays, vultures, and sudden loud noises.
